THURSDAY, May 11, 1863.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS.

Mesquite, Arizona, without a tail. The last of the Silver Convention will be held on May 15th.

Mr. George J. Ross has been appointed Postmaster at Flagstaff.

Contracts have been let for a 100 stamp mill on the Phoenix mine.

Horse thieves are reported operating in the southern part of Pima Co.

There are hundreds of dead sheep along the Little Colorado, in Apache county.

The Mesa City creamery makes a daily output of 125 pounds of girt-edged butter.

The Papagoes at the San Xavier reservation are raising watermelons for the Tucson market.

Two ten-foot veins of excellent coal have been recently uncovered in the vicinity of Flagstaff.

The territorial grand lodge of Old Fellows will convene at Flagstaff on the eighteenth of May.

The trees in the orange grove near Phoenix are heavily loaded with fruit, and promise a large crop.

The new electric light company at Phoenix has sent a representative to Chicago to buy machinery.

Governor Hughes has appointed Dr. J. C. Norton territorial veterinary surgeon, vice Dr. A. J. Chandler.

Phoenix bankers will test the legality of the bank tax law enacted by the recently adjourned legislature.

During the past term the Arizona normal school at Tempe has had an average attendance of sixty pupils.

Mr. J. L. Hathaway, principal of the public school at Nogales, has resigned to accept a position on the railway.

The Southern Pacific is sending Arizona cattle to California, for ornamentation of station and depot grounds.

A great deal of prospecting is being done in the Superstition mountains, and many rich discoveries are reported.

A government survey is being organized at Prescott to sub-divide about 300,000 acres of public land in that vicinity.

A contract for a new dormitory at the territorial university at Tucson will soon be made. Estimated cost, $3,000.

The Los Angeles Times of Monday uncovers a grave scandal at the Yuma penitentiary, accusing Superintendent McInernay of malfeasance and corruption.

R. R. Coleman has been appointed superintendent of the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix railway, with headquarters at Prescott.

Last week Governor Hughes commissioned A. J. Halbert and David Closs as members of the board of education for the territorial normal school at Tempe.

Yuma county proposes to expend her World's Fair appropriation in the shipment of early fruits to Chicago, where they will be put on exhibition at the Columbian Exposition.

A new office was created by the last legislature. It is cattle inspector, for inspection of brands on all stock to be killed by butchers. A fee of twenty-five cents a head is allowed. Inspectors are appointed by boards of supervisors.

In the last three months the Tucson Sampling Works has enjoyed a great increase in business in all departments. From one mine alone, the Montana, the establishment receives 800 tons of ore per month.

A cave of 300 feet on Mammoth mine is reported as having occurred one day last week. Fortunately the mishap occurred at the noon hour, when the men were out of the mine to dinner, and no one was injured.

The beef contracts for the military posts in Arizona have been let. Reported successful bidders: L. P. Nash at Fort Apache, price $3.45; J. N. Porter, San Carlos, price not given; M. A. Lesby, Fort Grant, at $3.55.

More than 800 men and teams are throwing dirt on the line of the Santa Fe, Prescott & Phoenix railway, and nine miles of the roadbed south of Prescott are already completed. It is estimated that trains will be running into Phoenix within a year.

A Mexican named Dorami is serving a term in the Yuma penitentiary for a murder he never committed. The right party, another Mexican named Lagman, has just been arrested and confessed the crime. Governor Hughes will be asked to pardon Dorami.

Judge Ribbey holds that the president had no authority to remove him before expiration of his term in 1894, and his protest was spread upon the minutes of the court at Globe last week, when the new appointee, Judge Rouse, ascended the bench.

Developments in the Yuma penitentiary scandal have resulted in arrest of Superintendent McInernay. He is accused of misappropriation of property belonging to the territory. It is asserted that the investigation now going on will develop further irregularities by the ex-superintendent.

The Maricopa county grand jury has indicted T. J. Wolfley, editor of the Arizona Republic, for libel against Col. C. S. Masten, manager of the Maricopa and Phoenix railway and telegraph line. Mr. Wolfley is out on bail, there having been quite a rivalry among prominent citizens of Phoenix to go upon his bond.

President Cleveland has appointed William K. Meade U. S. marshal, and E. F. Ellinwood U. S. attorney for Arizona. Meade was incumbent of the marshalship under the territorial administration of Cleveland, and is re-appointed on account of the exceptionally fine record he then made. Ellinwood was a delegate to the Chicago convention last year.

Territorial School Superintendent Nefferton has received several replies to his circular letter to the teachers of the territory for expressions of opinion on the subject of a change in text books. All favor a change, and a meeting of the committee appointed by the last territorial legislature will be held shortly at Phoenix to take the initiative steps in the matter.

A big vein of gold bearing rock of 100 feet wide and four miles long, has been recently discovered by L. F. Bradshaw of Oracle and Walter Kane of Denver. Some assays made go as high as $1700 in gold. The scene of the strike is in the north of Aubrey valley, in the Cochise forest. A branch railway from Aubrey, on the line of the Atlantic & Pacific, will be built to ship out the ore.

Mrs. Maid Shawson of Arizola, who went east about a month ago, writes from Carthage, Mo., that she had a pleasant trip, and is greatly enjoying eastern spring weather. Her visit at Carthage will be extended through the summer.

Sunday morning Mr. M. H. Moore suffered a relapse of his lung trouble, that was caused by an old wound. He is now better.
